

A Different Kind of Transportation Firm

Nelson\Nygaard Consulting Associates Inc. is a nationally recognized firm that is distinguished by our development of transportation systems that build vibrant, sustainable communities. With seven offices covering North America, we have one of the largest groups of transportation planners that focuses entirely on planning for transit and non-auto modes. This dynamic has allowed us to become a leader in transit planning and operations, transit-oriented development (TOD), accessible transportation planning, and transportation demand management (TDM). We plan bus services, streetcar systems, light rail, BRT, high-speed rail, ferries and commuter rail. We work with some of the largest transit agencies, as well as some of the very smallest, developing mobility solutions that have been implemented in North America and around the world.

A hallmark of every Nelson\Nygaard project is a fully multi-modal approach drawn from real world experience. Our transit staff have worked at transit systems and as consultants, and are also transit riders. We understand the constraints that transit systems operate under, as well as the expectations of the riding public and other constituents. We pride ourselves on finding common ground between competing priorities to develop plans for significant transit service improvements—plans that are practical and implementable, and that achieve a high level of public support.
